Provident Fund (EPFO) Filings

Are you expanding your corporate team, onboarding permanent employees, or aiming to establish benchmark human resource standards within your business? Securing an EPFO (Employees' Provident Fund Organisation) Registration and Filing ecosystem is a critical statutory milestone. It provides a long-term social security and retirement savings framework for your team, keeping your company fully compliant with Indian labor codes and enhancing workforce retention.

The EPF framework mandates that once an establishment is registered, the employer must deduct a statutory percentage (typically 12% of basic wages) from eligible employees' salaries and contribute an equal matching amount into their dedicated provident fund account monthly. These collections must be filed online month-on-month through an Electronic Challan-cum-Return (ECR); failure to register or timely deposit monthly PF contributions can lead to severe financial penalties and legal action against company management.

Eligibility Criteria

- Mandatory Workforce Limit: Every factory or business establishment that employs twenty (20) or more individuals on any single day must register within 15 days of reaching this headcount.
- Voluntary Option: Small businesses with less than 20 employees can opt for a voluntary PF registration to provide retirement benefits to their team and elevate corporate prestige.
- Salary Ceiling: While registration applies to the whole entity, PF deductions are structurally mandatory for employees earning a basic salary of up to ₹15,000 per month.

ESI Filings

Are you building an operational workforce, managing manufacturing plants, or running an office with multiple entry-level employees? Securing an ESIC (Employees' State Insurance Corporation) Registration and Filing framework is a mandatory statutory obligation under Indian social security laws. It provides a robust, state-backed health insurance and medical benefit framework for your team, protecting your business from immense workplace accident liabilities.

The ESIC ecosystem ensures that eligible employees and their dependents receive comprehensive medical care, maternity benefits, sick leave pay, and disability compensation. Employers must contribute a statutory percentage (3.25% of gross wages) of the monthly payroll, while employees contribute a fractional amount (0.75%) from their basic wages. All data, employee additions, and monthly financial contributions must be filed digitally via the ESIC portal before the 15th of every subsequent month.

Eligibility Criteria

- Mandatory Employee Baseline: Applicable to any commercial establishment, factory, or office that employs ten (10) or more individuals on any single day (this threshold is twenty in certain states).
- Salary Threshold: Employees whose gross monthly salary is ₹21,000 or below are legally covered under this scheme.
- Physical Coverage: The business premises must be located within an ESIC-implemented geographic zone or municipal territory.

Professional Tax (PT Filings)

Are you expanding your business operations across multiple Indian states, opening regional branches, or employing professionals earning a salary? Securing a Professional Tax (PT) Registration and Filing infrastructure is an absolute statutory prerequisite. Regulated at the state government level under Article 276 of the Constitution of India, this tax is levied on professions, trades, callings, and employments.

Professional Tax compliance requires a dual-structured registration based on your business dynamic: Professional Tax Enrollment Certificate (PTEC), which authorizes the business entity itself to pay its annual tax, and Professional Tax Registration Certificate (PTRC), which mandates the employer to deduct tax from employees' monthly salaries and file returns.

Eligibility Criteria

- Employer Purview (PTRC): Every business entity that employs one or more individuals earning a salary above the minimum state-exempt slab must register for PTRC.
- Corporate Entity Purview (PTEC): Every corporate entity, including Private Limited companies, LLPs, registered Partnerships, and Sole Proprietorships, must register for PTEC to clear their corporate tax liabilities.
- Director/Partner Mandate: Individual directors, designated partners, and independent practicing consultants are individually liable to maintain active PT compliance.

Labour Welfare Fund (LWF) Filings

Are you managing an enterprise with a growing employee base, running retail chains, or operating a manufacturing unit across implemented states? Maintaining active Labour Welfare Fund (LWF) Filings is an essential statutory labor law compliance metric. Operating under state-specific boards, this fund provides financial aid, health amenities, and welfare schemes to workers.

The LWF compliance architecture requires a joint financial contribution from both the employer and the employee, with the specific contribution ratios and filing frequencies (monthly, half-yearly, or annual) varying widely across state jurisdictions. Failure to compute or remit these funds can lead to severe audits by labor inspectors, blocking your corporate clean compliance certificates.

Eligibility Criteria

- State Implementation: The business premises or branch offices must be physically located within an Indian state that has enacted the Labour Welfare Fund Act.
- Workforce Count Threshold: This compliance typically kicks in for establishments employing five (5) or more, or ten (10) or more individuals depending strictly on regional state rules.
- Employee Exclusion Scope: Applies broadly to manual, clerical, and technical workers; however, managerial and highly paid supervisory personnel are often excluded based on state salary caps.
